the front of the courthouse for part of the month of April to promote the Coast Encounters community education program, which NASA is providing through John C. Stennis Space Center during April and May. (Echo staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Travirca receives six months

Former Hancock County Beat Five Supervisor James N. Travirca has been sentenced to six months in prison in connection with "Operation Pretense." Travirca, 62, believes he is medically unfit to serve it because he suffers from heart disease. His doctor has stated his disapproval of prison time for the former supervisor.

Judge William H. Barbour Jr. sentenced Travirca and four former supervisors from other counties Wednesday to terms ranging from six months to three years. Travirca's actual sentence was five years with four years and six months suspended, $1,000 in fines and $1,000 in restitution.

He had entered a guilty plea to two counts of mail fraud and admitted taking $1,100 in kickbacks.

Another former Hancock County supervisor, Bert Courge, is scheduled for sentencing April 12. Courge, who represented Beat One, has pleaded guilty to one count of mail fraud.

Hancock Salute to Industry set April 28 at Diamondhead

The third annual Hancock County Salute to Business and Industry will be April 28 at 7:30 a.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

The program is sponsored by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission in cooperation with the Board of Supervisors and the Chamber of Commerce.

The local program is held in conjunction with the statewide Salute to Business and Industry Month activities to recognize the contributions of existing business and industry to the economy.

This year, the county's program will honor the John C. Stennis Space Center and the various companies which provide a broad array of vital services to the center's resident agencies. These companies employ approximately 3,500 of the total 5,400 personnel at the government installation.

"Coast Encounters," a community event promoting science literacy among Mississippi Gulf Coast students, will also be highlighted.

In addition, two local businesses will be honored during the breakfast program, according to Harold "Buz" Olsen, executive director of the Port and Harbor Commission.

The public is invited to attend the Salute to Business and Industry program. For further information, contact the Port and Harbor Commission at 467-9231.

Three new candidates qualify for Bay elections

BY DENA BISNETTE

Three more candidates have entered that Bay St. Louis city election field in the last two days of qualifying.

Conrad Mauffray, who ran in the recent special election and made it into the run-off, qualified Friday to run against James Rutherford, who defeated him in January. Both are Democrats.

One candidate each was added to the mayor's race and the councilman, first district race on Saturday before the noon qualifying deadline, said City Clerk Edward Favre.

The new mayoral candidate is Martin Morreale, who is also the only Republican participating in the election. He will face the winner of the May 2 Democratic primary between Favre and former Mayor Larry Bennett.

Louis Decell entered the race for the first district council seat against incumbent Charles Scianna, who was elected in January after his predecessor won a seat on the board of supervisors.

The other candidates are Edmond V. "Gus" Aime and incumbent James Thriffley III, second district; incumbent Charles Johnson, Tom Farve and Phillip Williams, third district; and incumbent John Wilkerson, Tom Williams and Burt Taylor, fourth district.

The run-off elections for Districts Three and Four, if needed, have been set for May 16. The general election will be June 6.

County considering temporary shelter

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is now considering the possibility of setting up a temporary animal shelter with the city of Bay St. Louis until a new tri-entire animal commission can be formed.

The board's attorney, Gerald Gex, has written a rough draft of an agreement for a new commission for the cooperative operation of the existing animal shelter by Hancock County, Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

He told the board and Hancock County Humane Society President Thyla Rogers Friday that he had received some feedback on the draft from Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr., but had been unable to get any from Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr., who wanted to wait until after the Bay St. Louis City elections.

At the board's request, he contacted Longo again Friday morning and planned to meet with him after the supervisors' meeting, which ended at about noon.

Gex also told the group that the major addition Frankiewicz wanted in the agreement was inclusion of the National Humane Society's principles on treatment of animals.

The county used to participate in the governing and funding of the existing animal shelter in Waveland, which is now operated by the Waveland Animal Commission. That shelter accepts animals from the county and Bay St. Louis in exchange for funding.

1989 is the first year the shelter has been operated by Waveland alone. The facility was built on Waveland-owned property behind Fire Station No. 2 on Gulfside Drive about eight years ago, but was originally operated by a commission consisting of representatives of Waveland, Bay St. Louis, Hancock County and one non-profit group, the Hancock County Humane Society.

The Humane Society was phased out last year when the number of commissioners was reduced, then Waveland took over shelter operations after Longo pointed out that by having the facility on city property, Waveland was bearing the "unseen costs" involved.

Those costs ranged from the expenses involved in hauling and disposal of the bodies of euthanized animals to time lost from city projects when workers had to catch strays before they could move their equipment from the city barn or wastewater plant nearby.

Past controversies which have arisen regarding the shelter include whether it is adequate to house and process all of the strays brought in from the county and the two cities.

Rogers said a place for a temporary shelter is available and a number of donations of labor and equipment have already been pledged. In addition, Frankiewicz has told her that

Eagles being reintroduced at Du Pont DeLisle Forest

BY D.C. HARVILL

After a long absence, southern bald eagles returned to Hancock County in a big way Thursday—aboard the world's second largest jet.

In a cooperative effort between the National Park Service, Mississippi State University, and Du Pont 17 baby eagles were flown into Stennis International Airport on a Mississippi Air National Guard C-141 jet Thursday morning.

Through a technique called "hacking" the eaglets will be introduced to the wild in the DeLisle Forest, a wooded buffer area around Du Pont's titanium dioxide plant on the north shore of Bay St. Louis in Harrison County.

Hacking, the term refers to a board on which falconers placed food for birds of prey that were being trained, is a method of expanding the eagle's range by releasing them into areas where they no longer are found.

The project is part of a long-term effort to re-establish the eagles throughout their former range.

When designated the national bird in 1782 the birds were common throughout North America. But, due to several factors, their numbers had greatly diminished by early this century.

Many eagles were killed because they were thought to prey upon livestock, an undeserved reputation since they feed mainly on fish and carrion.

The cutting of forests further threatened the great birds as adequate nesting trees became harder to find.

Then in the 1950's, the United States almost became a country without a living example of its national symbol when, as a result of the pesticide DDT, they nearly vanished into extinction.

DDT was sprayed liberally on crops nation-wide and the chemical found its way into almost every body of water in the country. Subsequently the eagles became contaminated through the fish they ate.

Almost too late for the eagles, it was discovered that DDT-contaminated birds lay thin-shelled eggs that tend to crack during incubation.

Since DDT was totally banned in this country in 1972, bald eagles, with assistance from man, have slowly recovered to the extent that stable and growing populations exist in some parts of their former range.

When a clutch of eggs is removed from its nest, a female will lay a second batch of eggs.

Capitalizing on this phenomena, scientist have been able to increase the bald eagle's numbers more rapidly than if the birds were left to their own means.

The eggs from which the 17 Du Pont eagles hatched were collected from nests in Florida. They then were incubated at the Sutton Avian Research Center in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, where the chicks were nurtured for seven to eight weeks.

So the eagles do not become dependent on man, their contact with humans is kept to a minimum during the entire procedure.

"If they have any contact with humans it is important that it be a negative experience so they will avoid humans when they are released into the wild," said Steven Sherrod, director of the avian research center.

The dark brown eagles, they do not develop the distinctive white head until four or five years-old, will spend the next three to four weeks behind bars in a tower overlooking the bay, constructed by Du Pont.

Approximately 75 of the plant's employees have volunteered to assist in feeding the birds their daily diet of fish.

Even after the young eagles are able to fly and have been released, food will be left at the tower for them until they can fend for themselves.

In another hacking project, now in its third year, twenty-four eaglets are being hacked Horn Island, south of Pascagoula.

After leaving the area, the eagles may wander as far away as Canada. If they survive, however, in four to five years they will return to nest within 20 miles of the hacking site.

If the project is successful our once beleaguered national bird may again grace the skies of coastal Mississippi.

Roy transcends stock character

BY DENA BISNETTE

Gayle Roy of Bay St. Louis adds a new wrinkle to her favorite stage persona, the little old lady, in Center Stage's current comedy production, "Social Security."

Roy, a regular at Center Stage who has also appeared with Waveland Players, usually plays a slightly demented old lady who isn't altogether aware of what's going on around her. She seemed in danger of being typecast after playing such a part in a previous Center Stage production, "The Foreigner," but in this play she transcends the limitations that part placed on her.

In "Social Security," which is by Andrew Bergmen, the audience probably expects the sort of dead but unaware old woman.

That's almost right—except... Roy, at her comic best, dons a grey wig and a Jewish accent to play a widow who's been shuttled from the home of her conservative daughter Trudy, capably and hysterically played by Sue Turman, to the home of her "classy" art dealer daughter, Barbara, who is portrayed by Debby Weeks.

The old lady, Sophie Greengrass, isn't happy about the change, which occurs at the worst possible time for all concerned. Neither are the daughters or their husbands, Martin and David, played respectively by Jerry Halderman and Shorty Sneed.

An unexpected turn of events involving an elderly artist played by Harold Bremer, however, leads into a delightful plot twist as well as an exploration of Roy's acting talent as she turns her character from her stock little old lady into a sensitive person with some real self-worth.

With the support of a Center Stage cast that consists mostly of experienced players, Roy not only succeeds in making the metamorphosis but evokes changes in the other characters as well.

The show is considered adult comedy and includes some rather sexy language, so it is not a production for everyone, but it should be a hit with anyone who likes this type of laughs.

The show continues through April 9 at Center Stage's Coward Road playhouse in Gulfport, with the exception of Monday, when no performance is scheduled. Today's performance is a 3 p.m. matinee, with an 8 p.m. curtain time for all the others.

The box office is open from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. daily and messages are taken on a 24-hour answering machine. Ticket information or reservations may be obtained at 869-6455.

SPORTS SHORTS

LADNER HONORED

The late Wendell Ladner of Necaise Crossing will be inducted into the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame Monday.

His brother, Berlin Ladner of Slidell, La., will accept the plaque. Wendell Ladner, who attended Hancock North Central in the mid 1960s, was playing professional basketball for the New York Nets when he was killed in a June 24, 1975, plane crash.

Cretaceous-age sediment study funded by state DNR grant

The Mississippi Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Geology, has been awarded a $21,000 grant by the U.S. Department of Interior, Mineral Management Service to study the Cretaceous-age sediments of the nearshore and offshore areas of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The grant will be administered by the University of Texas at Austin.

The offshore waters of Mississippi have an attractive, and at present, untested oil and gas resource potential in the form of thick, self-margin Cretaceous-age sediments.

Nearby onshore production occurs in Hancock County in Ansley, Kiln and Waveland Fields.

To the west of the study area, offshore production occurs in Louisiana in Rigolets Field.

This study will provide a regional geologic framework of the productive areas, provide a tool for the exploration geologist, and encourage greater interest in Mississippi's nearshore oil and gas potential.

Correction

An article on voter registration deadlines on Page 1A of Thursday's Echo incorrectly listed Burt Taylor as a candidate for Bay St. Louis' At-Large Council seat. Taylor is running for District Four councilman, which means James Rutherford is currently unopposed for the At-Large position.

E.V. 'Gus' Aime is retired from South Central Bell, not from a power company.

The article also should have stated that the voter turnout in the last election was about 70 percent instead of 90 percent.

The Echo regrets any inconvenience caused by the errors.

Our Big Solution To Blocked Arteries Is Smaller Than You Think.

It's as small as a tiny beam of light. Yet its results are as big as life. It's the powerful laser used to perform angioplasty at the NorthShore Vascular Laser Center.

For patients with blocked leg arteries, laser angioplasty is an alternative to surgery. It's high technology that's as simple as inserting the tiny laser probe into the blocked vessel. Advancing it to the blockage. And vaporizing it. With the blockage cleared, a balloon can be inserted and inflated, and normal blood circulation is restored.

What are the benefits for patients? A shorter hospital stay, reduced risk, speedier recovery and less expense. The procedure is quick. Precise. And on the north shore, it's available at NorthShore Regional Medical Center.

For more information or a second opinion about this revolutionary procedure, see your physician or give us call at 641-6363. And ask us about laser angioplasty. It's just one of our big solutions to your healthcare needs.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator
Thad Cochran

Lott, Cochran continue harmonious relationship

Predictions that the relationship between laid-back senior U.S. Sen. Thad Cochran and his high-profile new colleague, Trent Lott, would be stormy from the very beginning apparently haven't turned out that way after the first three months.

At least on senatorial patronage, the issue over which many expected to see Cochran and Lott tangle from the outset, the two very diverse Republican senators evidently have reached an amicable meeting-of-minds.

Cochran told this column last week that when it comes to filling appointments which fall under senatorial patronage he and Lott are "going to work together on these things...we are going to try to work out an agreed recommendation rather than divide it up."

What Cochran was referring to when he mentioned "dividing up" patronage was the way Democratic Senators Jim Eastland and John Stennis used to divide judgeship appointments, one filling those in North Mississippi and the other in South Mississippi.

"We (Cochran and Lott) will make recommendations together," Cochran said, "it will be a cooperative effort. So far it has worked fine."

This arrangement between Cochran and Lott, however, seems to imply that Cochran as senior senator will still have the final say-so on who gets what, but that he will seek Lott's concurrence before making his recommendation.

Evidently the first real test of their patronage agreement has gone off smoothly.

That was over George Phillips, the U.S. attorney for south Mississippi, whose reappointment is due to come up in a few months. There had been some speculation that since Phillips represents Lott's home area Lott would try to name his own choice.

Under Phillips' administration most of the 57 county supervisors netted in the FBI's "Operation Pretense" have been successfully prosecuted, although Phillips personally does not handle the courtroom trial work.

Cochran made it clear to this writer the other day that he sees no reason to replace Phillips "since he (Phillips) has done an excellent job." He added that he believed Lott felt the same way.

"Trent and I have talked about it (Phillips' reappointment) and he has no problem with him," Cochran said.

The next major piece of senatorial patronage expected to turn up for Cochran and Lott is a vacancy in the federal district judgeships in South Mississippi.

Specifically, the vacancy is expected to be the post of District Judge Walter Nixon Jr. who is on leave from active service as a judge because he is serving a federal prison sentence for conviction of lying to a grand jury.

Impeachment proceedings against Nixon have already cleared the committee stage in the U.S. House of Representatives and Cochran evidently expects that Nixon will be impeached and removed from office when his trial is held in the Senate within the next month or so.

Certainly neither Cochran nor Lott will comment on how they will vote on the impeachment for their fellow Mississippian until they have heard the evidence.

However, last year during his campaign for the Senate, Lott made the statement that he thought Nixon should resign his $89,500 a year judgeship.

There is an ironical bit of history involving the now embattled Nixon and Cochran and Lott. Back five years ago, Cochran and Lott, the latter then a House member, clashed head-on over filling a seat allotted to Mississippi on the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Cochran had recommended Jackson attorney Grady Jolly for the Appeals County slot. But Lott challenged Cochran's traditional Senatorial patronage and recommended his longtime friend, Harry Allen, a Gulfport attorney, for the court seat.

When Cochran and Lott seemed to be at an impasse on the Appeals Court judgeship, they shopped around for a compromise. The compromise they came up with was to elevate Nixon from his district judgeship to the Appeals Court, and then Jolly would be given the vacant district judgeship.

The compromise came unglued when Nixon declined to take the Appeals Court seat. A year or so later he was indicted.

"I think that saying should be changed to 'It's the early cat that catches the early bird that catches the worm.'"

Legislative session produces positive action

Three months ago, I outlined in my State-of-the-State Address a number of actions that would improve the quality of life in Mississippi and help us prepare for the next century.

Today I am pleased to say that the Legislature acted on nearly all of those recommendations. It was a tough but productive legislative session in which my office and the Legislature worked effectively together on a number of issues.

Following are my proposals and how they fared:

—A No-Tax-Increase Budget: the Legislature fully funded teacher pay raises approved last year, keeping education as our top budget priority. Also fully funded were university and junior college increases. Most importantly, this was done without a tax increase.

The Legislature went one step further by initiating and passing an "equity funding" program. This program will help make sure that all school districts in Mississippi have the money they need to provide a quality education.

—State Government Reorganization: The Legislature passed what is a good start toward making state government work better. But it is only a start, and I will come back with more next year.

It is clear that Mississippians support a smaller, more efficient state government; one that delivers more services at less cost. I am firmly committed to that goal as well.

With this reorganization, we can build an even stronger case for doing more to make government work better.

—Expansion of Medicaid: We will extend basic health care to more than 50,000 Mississippians throughout the state. The Legislature increased Medicaid spending by $135 million in federal and state funds. It is the single largest increase in health care funding in our state's history.

There is no way to really measure the impact of this action. Lives will be saved, and the quality of countless lives will be improved.

It will help children and it will help senior citizens. And, it will benefit people in every corner of Mississippi—without regard to where you live.

—Capital Improvements: For the first time, Mississippi is addressing, on a long-term basis, the critical need to build and maintain public facilities.

Lawmakers considered a package of capital improvements that will help Mississippi compete in areas from education to economic development.

—Economic Development: We now have a competitive advertising budget to promote Mississippi around the country and the world. That means jobs and business for Mississippi.

Also, a package of economic development reforms was passed that will better help us attract and create jobs.

—Water Study: The Legislature approved money for a long-awaited study of our water resources.

Our agricultural health and well being and our public water supplies are being threatened by the severe lack of water.

—Corrections: Money needed to operate new prison facilities that are being built was approved to fulfill our duty to lock up lawbreakers.

—Housing: For the first time, Mississippi will have a statewide plan to meet our housing needs with creation of a new Mississippi Home Corporation.

In addition to a statewide plan, the corporation will identify sources of money to help finance housing for Mississippians.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

We hope everyone remembered to set their clocks ahead one hour this morning.

There may be some folks who forgot and will be one hour late for church services.

We still use the formula of 'springing forward' in the Spring and 'falling backward' in the Fall to get the correct clock setting.

I have been looking forward to the longer afternoons in order to do some work around the yard such as getting some ground ready for a few vegetable plants.

The much awaited Bay-Waveland area's annual Spring Pilgrimage will be held on Thursday.

Bay-Waveland Garden Club members have been busy making preparations for the big event for several weeks.

In addition to the tour there will be a mini flower show at the club's Garden Center on Leonhard Avenue, Bay St. Louis, beginning at 10 a.m.

The tour will include:

—Hancock County Courthouse, 150 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.;

—The Kate Lobrano House, 108 Cue Street, Bay St. Louis, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.;

—City Hall, South Second Street and City Park Avenue, Bay St. Louis, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.;

—The home of Dr. Larry Heller and Lawrence Timmerman, 314 Main St., Bay St. Louis, 12 noon to 4 p.m.;

—The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, North Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.;

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. T.D. Ashman, 107 Lafitte Drive, Waveland, open all day; and —The home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morrison, Bayou Phillip, open 1 to 4 p.m.

We know from previous years there have been many visitors during the Bay-Waveland Pilgrimage. We hope there will also be many local residents taking advantage of the Pilgrimage too.

See you at the Pilgrimage on Thursday.

The entrance of Spring has brought some nice weather; even though it was a little cool Saturday morning warmer days are ahead.

This is the time of year when many of our youngsters become involved in all types of ball games.

Our ballparks are all busy, and I have seen several coaches with their teams practicing in preparation for league play.

This means many of our young boys and girls will be traveling back and forth to the ballparks, so motorists have to be extremely careful while driving about town.

Our youngsters need to observe traffic laws while walking or riding on our streets.

We want everyone to have a good time, and do it safely too.

Veterans sought for 4th Division reunion

To the Editor:

The Mid-South Chapter of the 4th Infantry Division Association reunion held in Houma, La. in April 1988 was the best attended chapter meeting ever.

Members from many other chapters and states, such as Indiana, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, South Carolina and Pennsylvania went to Houma to experience the unique hospitality of south Louisiana veterans of the 4th Infantry Division.

Most of all however, it was a thrilling experience for those first-time attendees to see their real close combat buddies once again and hug each other, some for the first time in more than 40 years.

We are searching for all 4th Infantry Division veterans who served in World War I, World War II and Vietnam.

If you served with the 4th Infantry Division during these wars, come join us at the Biloxi Beach Resort Motor Inn in Biloxi for our next reunion of the Mid-South Chapter on April 27-29.

For more information contact C. A. Himel, 201 Alex Street, Houma, LA 70360, telephone 540-873-7974 or Dennis G. Gray, 3303 N. Robinson Road, Texarkana, TX 75501, telephone 214-838-9874 or Vernon Pace, 717 Hillsboro Street, Forest, MS 39074, telephone 469-1408.

'Look forward' is lesson learned from animals

Dear Editor:

My father, Joe Williams, owned considerable acreage in Pearl River County.

He operated small tractor saw mills, owned 'share crop' farms, and ran cattle on the pasture lands. He used animals such as watch dogs, ox teams and mules.

He was well acquainted with all of his animals. Loved them. Understood them, and that is why he had blinkers or 'blindners' put on a pair of fine but high-strung mules. These mules were skiddish because they could look behind them and see what was coming. They panicked.

With the blinkers firmly attached they could only look forward. They became serviceable, dependable and efficient. Sometimes I wish there were 'blindners' for people. If we couldn't look back and see what is coming, we could more cheerfully and confidently look forward and enjoy all the miracles and progress and inventions we see and read about every day.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bisnette

Sometimes I think the term "Spring fever" is pretty accurate.

Concentrating on writing is not usually hard for me. I've been working in newspaper offices since January 1982, which means that I've grown used to constant interruptions from phone calls, people who wander into the office to drop off news items, people who come just to visit and fellow employees asking me things.

My editor, Janet McQueen, once paid me a major compliment—she said something to the effect that I can stop in mid-sentence and when I sit back down at the computer, I can pick up the same thought right away. After seven years, I should be able to do that.

Spring is one of the two times of year I have trouble doing that. The other time is a few weeks in Fall when the weather is almost identical to a Spring day, except it doesn't last as long because the days are shorter.

Who wants to work indoors when the sun is shining, the birds are singing, the breeze is just the right temperature and the humidity is normal?

MILITARY MENTION

PVT HAMM

Army National Guard Private 1st Class Ricky T. Hamm, son of Thabert E. Hamm of Pass Christian and Brenda C. Hamm of Talladega, Ala., has completed the UH-1 helicopter repair course at the U.S. Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Ala.

The course is designed to provide enlisted personnel with a working knowledge in organizational, direct and general support maintenance on the UH-1 helicopter.

Personnel are trained in the duties of crew chief and record keeper.

SEAMAN BIGGS

Navy Seaman Recruit Anthony J. Biggs, son of Anthony Biggs and Patricia Payne of Pass Christian, recently deployed to the Indian Ocean while serving aboard the destroyer tender USS Puget Sound, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

During the six-month deployment, Biggs will provide repair and maintenance services to ships deployed in the Mediterranean Sea, Indian Ocean and Persian Gulf.

A 1986 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

When I speak of humidity as normal, the last thing I mean is the normal Gulf Coast humidity. I'm talking about what's considered humid in the central Midwest, where a dry wind usually takes whatever moisture is in the air and carries it away.

I mean just enough humidity to make the average person feel comfortable, the way it has been this week. I'm not the sort who likes summer in the South, just because I don't like a humidity level so high your hair never dries and your clothes stick to you.

I like Spring. I like this kind of weather and I like the way the air smells of azaleas and the leftover dry leaves from winter. I like being able to stand outside and not have so much sun and dampness that it saps the energy from every living thing except the bugs.

In Spring I try to find as many excuses as possible to work outside the office. I suddenly become a lot more interested in photography than usual, and travel is a tempting activity on weekends and days off.

I wish there were some windows in The Sea Coast Echo's office so I could open them and smell Spring.

One of my co-workers has a child named Spring. That's a bright, cheerful name. Much like the season itself, it's a name that I believe encourages happy

But who can grow inside a building without windows? Even my plants at home seem to grow poorly when unsuitable weather forces me to keep the windows closed. Even buildings with the best ventilation are full of stale smells and dust compared to the outdoors in Spring.

During Spring, people start acting like my pets, who rush for the doors and linger in the yard as long as possible. They, too, act as if they'd been closed up indoors all day, and when they hit the door like rats off a sinking ship at quitting time, they tend to linger in the parking lot a few minutes, soaking up a little Spring before they get into their cars.

People like my husband Joe, who detests yard work, are suddenly outside with their weed-eaters and hedge trimmers.

Kids who used to like school suddenly can't stand being there in the afternoons.

With everybody acting like that, is it any wonder that I'm having a little difficulty concentrating on my job? My mind is full of other things, like a sudden urge to pick the wildflowers from beside the sidewalk, take a long walk with my dogs or run through somebody's lawn sprinkler.

Spring may not be so easy for my bosses, but it certainly makes it easier for me to face the rest of the year.

PCMS student takes first place in essays

The first statewide Leadership Competitions were recently held at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

Pass Christian Middle School's Yen Nguyen, an eighth grade gifted student, won first place in the area of self-selected essay for grades 7-9.

The judging in the 1,000-word self-selected essay competition was based on several criteria: the significance of the topic, its content to leadership, thoroughness of the essay, grammatical skill and originality.

Yen entered the competition as a project for her Gifted Strategies class at Pass Christian Middle School. When asked about the experience, she commented, "It was a wonderful experience. Everybody was friendly. It is a good experience for competition in the future."

Yen, the 14-year-old daughter of Hoi and Trien Nguyen of Pass Christian, said she also hopes to be able to participate next year in order to gain more valuable leadership training and experience.

The competitions this year were sponsored by Pepsi and Pizza Hut through The Center for Gifted Studies at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Coast Episcopal Schools announce registration

Coast Episcopal Schools has announced the opening of registration for the 1989-90 school year on April 3.

Founded in 1950, the school is co-educational and educates students in pre-school through 12th grades at two campuses. The elementary school is located at 912 South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis, and the high school is located on Espy Avenue in Pass Christian.

Coast Episcopal's demanding and highly enriched college preparatory curriculum offers students a challenging environment where each student can excel according to interests and talents. Small classes encourage a close faculty-student relationship and allows time for individual attention.

An extensive athletic program at the junior high and senior high level allows both boys and girls to participate in a variety of sports.

For information contact the high school principal, Linda McCulloch at 452-9442; the elementary principal, Betsy Grant at 467-5125 or write Coast Episcopal Schools, Inc., P.O. Drawer N, Pass Christian, MS 39571.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139, hosted a birthday party March 30 for the residents of the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home for those who celebrated their birthdays during the month.

The cafeteria was tastefully decorated in spring colors and was filled with the many residents who came to hear the entertainment played by Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet on the piano as Walter Chamberlain played the banjo.

Mrs. Roslyn Weathers led the singing and Mrs. Oris Planchard went among the residents to encourage them to join in the activity.

When the residents sang 'Happy Birthday' to the recipients, Mrs. Planchard handed them their gifts with were received with a big smile and 'thank you.'

Refreshments were served, and while the residents were busy munching, the entertainment continued and a good time was had by all.

On Thursday, May 11, the auxiliary sponsored the regular monthly sing-a-long at Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home for the residents.

Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano and Walter Chamberlain played the banjo while Mrs. Oris Planchard went among the residents to encourage them to participate in the activity.

Mrs. Beth Gruzinskas, director, was pleased with the response of the residents to the music, and a good time was had by all.

"STOP ALL THIS PLEA BARGAINING"

It's time to stop plea bargaining with criminals and begin running the courts like a business.

It's time to clean up this big backlog of cases and put criminals in jail.

I will start court at eight o'clock, not at 9:30, or ten o'clock. Just about all the taxpayers in these three counties are on the job and hard at work at eight o'clock or earlier. They pay the salary and I plan to see they get a full day's work for their money.

Because it takes so long to get a case through the criminal court system, people feel there is no relationship anymore between crime and punishment. It is going to take long hours and hard work to return to the days of swift and appropriate punishment.

I've worked hard all my life. This job comes with a heavy workload, but hard work brings good results. We need to get to it.

I will appear on the Democratic ballot during primary voting on April 4. I am a veteran who served in the U.S. Army from 1965 through 1968.

Unfortunately,
it doesn't come with instructions.

Sometimes the question isn't how to gain experience.

It's how to use the experience you've already gained.

Fortunately, one Judge has used his experience to gain our trust.

As a former City Judge of Gulfport, a former Justice Court Judge and a Master in Chancery, Judge Morris has served our communities well with experience and integrity on the bench.

As Chancery Court Judge—Place 3 for the last 16 years, Judge Morris has opened all Chancery Court terms assigned to him during his 16 years on the Chancery Bench. His judicial decisions have been consistently upheld by the Mississippi Supreme Court.

His record shows deep concern for the rights of the people and the interests of innocent children.

As an active duty veteran of WWII, Johnny Morris served in the Navy and was attached to the Anti-Submarine Unit of the Naval Air Patrol Squadron. He served his country with courage and valor.

Now, as Senior Chancellor of Harrison, Stone and Hancock Counties, Judge Morris represents our legal system at its best.

On Tuesday, April 4th, let's reelect Judge Johnny Morris, Chancery Court—Place 3.

the location, a vacant building on Necaise Avenue, could be zoned for such a facility.

She said she has received so many allegations of problems at the existing shelter, which range from inconsistent animal adoption fees and poor sanitation to needless euthanizations, that she feels much of the public "would rather turn their animals loose than send them to the shelter."

Hancock County Animal Cruelty Investigator Harold Heine, who originally represented the society but has since been officially appointed to the position for the county, called the situation "pitiful" and said investigations indicate that about 40 percent of the unwanted animals from the county are not being taken to the shelter. He said large numbers are being dumped, particularly at Diamondhead.

Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Coward asked Rogers to return with cost estimates on converting the Necaise Avenue site to an animal shelter and operating it.

Gex said he will check to see if there are any legal problems regarding the establishment of a temporary animal shelter in conjunction with Bay St. Louis, but Beat One Supervisor Robert Peterson said he would prefer to see a permanent shelter established if the county chooses to make the investment.

Legislators turn down nursing facility

The Mississippi Legislature has deleted a certificate of need for a 60-bed skilled nursing facility in Hancock County from a bill that passed Friday.

Southern Health Enterprises, Inc., based in Manitowoc, Wisc., had asked for the legislation in order to add to its existing facility in the old Hancock General Hospital building.

The existing facility is a 32-bed residential care facility scheduled to open this week. Currently, renovations are being completed in the building, which Southern Health Enterprises purchased for $400,000.

What's happened since you gave Judge Vlahos 10 years?

Ten years ago you elected Kosta Vlahos as Judge of Circuit Court to serve Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

A Lot Has Happened In Ten Years

Judge Vlahos has served us well these past 10 years. He is now the Senior Circuit Court Judge of this District. In addition to his regular duties as Judge, he administers the dockets and court in Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

He is the first Circuit Judge to achieve participation in the Harrison County Circuit Court budgetary process. As a result, the taxpayers will save over $100,000 annually in attorney's fees in indigent cases without cutting back on the quality of legal services for the poor.

In 1979, he attended the National Judicial College. He has participated each year in the continuing judicial education programs at the Mississippi Judicial College.

His family has grown too, and he and his wife Kally now have three children; Nicholas, 10; Stacey, 9; and Anthony, 5. The family lives in Biloxi, where they are members of the Holy Trinity Church.

25,000 Circuit Court Cases In A Decade

The dockets of our three judges are always filled. More cases, more trials, and more motions than ever before. Judge Vlahos has presided over thousands of these cases. He works hard. He is doing the job.

Why Judge Vlahos Needs Your Help

Judge Vlahos: "A federal court has called a special election for April 4, 1989, which left me only 35 days to campaign in Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties. Because of my busy court docket, I cannot reschedule the terms of court to allow me time to campaign traditionally for my reelection. I trust the voters will understand why I will not be able to visit with them and ask personally for their vote and support."

Ten Years On The Bench Count

Each year has increased his value to the Circuit Court. His ten years of experience contribute every day to a more efficient and more just court system for our three counties. Judge Vlahos has earned our confidence and our vote. Let's give him another 10 years.

On April 4th, help reelect Judge Vlahos our Circuit Court Judge.

Bay St. Louis-Waveland Pilgrimage, Thursday, April 6

Bay-Waveland Garden Center

114 Leonhard Ave., Bay St. Louis. 10 a.m. to noon. A warm welcome and coffee are extended at the Garden Center where Pilgrimage brochures and maps are available.

Added interest—a mini-flower show and tour presented by the members of Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

Hancock County Courthouse

150 Main Street, Bay St. Louis. 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The county, formed in 1812, built its first courthouse in 1817 at a town named Caesar, later moved to Gainesville where the courthouse burned in 1853 and then moved to Shieldsborough, now known as Bay St. Louis.

The present Neo-Classical Revival two-story brick building was built in 1911 to replace a wooden Victorian building erected about 1866.

Kate Lobrano House

108 Cue Street, Bay St. Louis. 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Now the home of the Hancock County Historical Society, this charming turn-of-the-century cottage faces Hancock County Courthouse.

The home of Katherine Maynard Lobrano, given by her heirs in 1988 to be the permanent home of the historical society, is a two-bay cottage with an undercut front and side gallery of vertical barge board construction with lap siding, it features French doors at the entrance and along the side gallery.

The interior 12" rough-hewn wall boards have been exposed and returned to their original state. Still undergoing restoration, the house also serves as a small museum.

City Hall

South Second Street and City Park Avenue, Bay St. Louis. 11 a.m.-4 p.m. On land given to the city by trustees of St. Joseph Academy, the Georgian Revival brick structure was built circa 1905 by Gaston G. Gardebled, who later became mayor. A public park at the rear was added in 1916.

Home of Dr. Larry Heller and Lawrence Timmerman

314 Main Street, Bay St. Louis. Open noon to 4 p.m. Named "Halcyon House" (meaning a little bit of Heaven), this home is on the National Register of Historical Places.

The original cottage was built in 1840 in the chaste early Greek Revival style. In 1988 the present owners added 1,000 square feet which now includes living room, master bedroom and jacuzzi room.

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club

North Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis. 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Yacht Club Ladies Auxiliary will prepare and serve lunch. Price $6, no reservation necessary. (Lunch also is available at area restaurants).

Home of

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Ashman

107 Lafitte Drive, Waveland. Open all day. Designed by the owners for easy living, this home is solar heated and has a solar hot water system.

As you browse through the home please note the tri-sided fireplace, the revolving TV, and a dream kitchen that will please everyone. Then step into a spacious room containing a year-round swimming pool. Note that the owners are keeping it open all day so that you may take your time and enjoy it as they do.

Home of

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morrison

Bayou Phillips. Open 1-4 p.m. "Chocktaw Oaks" is a new raised home designed by the owners and completed October 1987 by builder Carl Heitzman.

This lovely home is situated on 2½ acres on Bayou Phillips. A balcony encircles the entire home, widening at the rear into a large veranda overlooking the bayou.

The interior, spacious and open, combines living room, dining room and kitchen. The master suite is on one side of this open area, with guest bedrooms and baths on the other.

Featured throughout are outstanding examples of antebellum antiques from "Clouester," home of Mr. Morrison's Aunt Annie Morrison, one of the manions on the Natchez Pilgrimage.

The couple will exchange vows June 9 in a 7 p.m. ceremony at St. Michael the Archangel Catholic Church in Crowley.

PATRICIA PAYNE

Smith-Stoltz

MR. AND MRS. BILLY EDWARD SMITH

Susan Ann Stoltz became the bride of Billy Edward Smith on March 28 in an afternoon exchange of vows with family members present. The Reverend Billy Wheat officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Stoltz Sr. of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith, also of Waveland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza over bridal taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice, neckline edged in lace and shirred bouffant skirt with scalloped organza flounce at the hemline. Her bridal veil was fashioned of sheer floral etched lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of blue carnations and baby's breath.

Sandra Spurlock of Waveland, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of aqua silk.

The groom's father served as best man. Ring bearers were Michael Spurlock, Henry A. Spurlock III and Johnathan Smith.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents in Waveland.

Assisting were Helen Sullivan and Billie Ruth Smith of Bay St. Louis and Marilyn Stoltz.

Bay St. Louis Theatre casts 'The Odd Couple'

Director Ed Scanlan has completed casting for the Little Theatre's first production in several years.

The Odd Couple—the female version—will star Jackie Magee as Olive and Mary Ellen Griffin as Florence.

Other members of the cast include Carol Young as Sylvie, Sally Rodrious as Mickey, Elizabeth Hart as Renee, Renee Weaver as Vera, Larry Heller of Manolo Costazuela, and Larry Timmerman as Jesus Costazuela.

Carol Young is the producer, and Lynn Montgomery is in charge of props.

The female version of The Odd Couple by Neil Simon is a delightful comedy where there is scarcely a moment that is not hilarious.

The first act centers around a Trivial Pursuit game, and the second act has a "guess who's coming to dinner" theme.

If you are in need of a good belly laugh and like to roar in the aisles, mark your calendar for May 18, 19 and 20 for a real fun time at the Little Theatre. Tickets will be $5 each.

Sooner or later on our Gulf Coast, so well known for its good food, the talk at just about any gathering of friends turns to food—the latest dish enjoyed at one's favorite restaurant, the special dessert savored at a friend's home, the happy results of a recent foray into cooking, and so on and on!

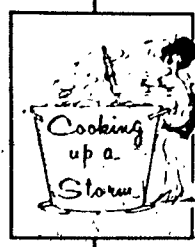

And so it was, the other morning when several friends were chatting over the coffee cups, and saying temporary farewells to Virginia and Clay Ostlund, two of our very favorite "snowbird" friends, who were heading home to the Chicago area after a several week's sojourn at The Pass.

And, since we all like to enjoy late, leisurely breakfasts with friends and family on weekends, or whenever we can, the conversation turned to good breakfast treats that still give the hostess time to enjoy the party, too!

Virginia gave me two excellent recipes, which I've already started using, you may be sure. One is a variation of the quiche, only this is a "crustless quiche."

(The Quiche Lorraine of the French countryside is a savory, custardy sort of pie, sort of tart, with a lower crust of pastry, and there are endless variations on the theme; as is the case in German cuisine, where it is known as "kuchen.") Here's:

VIRGINIA OSTLUND'S

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

CRUSTLESS QUICHE LORRAINE
8 to 10 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1/3 cup finely minced onion
4 eggs
1/3 cup Parmesan cheese
1 can (13 oz.) evaporated milk (or 1 and 3/4 cup half and half cream)
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
Sprinkle into a buttered 9-inch glass pie pan the bacon, Swiss cheese and onion. Then, in a large bowl, beat together with a whisk the eggs, Parmesan, milk and seasonings. Pour this over the bacon mixture, and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes or until a knife comes out clean when inserted into the mixture. Let stand for five or 10 minutes before cutting. Delicious!

Another of Virginia's stars at the breakfast table is:

BREAKFAST PIE
For the crust:
1 pkg. (12 oz.) frozen hash brown potatoes, thawed
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. dry onion flakes
For the "custard":
4 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup shredded cheese, Swiss or Cheddar
1 Tbsp. parsley, chopped
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

For topping:
1 pkg. cooked link sausage
First, be sure potatoes are thawed ahead of time. Add to the thawed potatoes the beaten egg, salt and dry onion flakes, and press the mixture into a buttered deep glass pie plate (9 or 10-inch). Sprinkle flour atop and set aside. Or chill for a few hours or even overnight if you wish.

For the filling: Beat in blender (or with whisk) the four eggs, cup of milk, and cup of cheese, parsley, pepper and Worcestershire. Pour this into the shell, and arrange the sausage on top, in spoke fashion.

Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, then decrease the heat to 300 degrees and continue baking for 25 to 30 minutes longer. Let it set for five minutes before cutting.

Note: You may double the recipe for a larger group, using a 13-9-2 pan or two pie shells.

Hancock Republicans to attend annual Rep. Fund Dinner

Republican National Committee Chairman Lee Atwater will be on hand when Mississippi Republicans hold their annual United Republican Fund Dinner in Jackson Friday, April 7.

The dinner will take place at the Ramada Renaissance Hotel in northeast Jackson beginning at 7:30 p.m. According to State Chairman Evelyn McPhail, the dinner will be one of several Republican events this year that will enable Mississippians to meet national leaders.

"We're delighted to have Lee Atwater coming to Mississippi," she said. "He fully recognizes the importance of Mississippi in the Republican South and wants to work with us as we continue our unprecedented growth at the local level."

Hancock County Republican Chairman Mike Smith said that Hancock County Republicans will be out recruiting new members for the United Republican Fund, the grass-roots fundraising program of the state party.

"Hancock County is excited about the growth of the Republican Party," Smith said. "A record number of our local members will be attending the URF dinner."

Reservations and further information about the URF dinner can be obtained through the Mississippi Republican headquarters in Jackson, 948-5191.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN

The next meeting of the Hancock County Republican Women's Club will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, April 6 in the Mississippi Room of the Diamondhead Inn.

GOOD FOOD BUYS

Use celery for low-calorie treats

"One brief moment on the lips Forever after on the hips!"

It is generally agreed that most Americans are several pounds overweight, and what to do about it is always a popular topic of conversation.

Fad diets keep popping up, but most fade out after a few months.

People who try them may lose fat quickly, but they usually can't live with such diets, and when the honeymoon is over, the pounds return as fast as they left.

There are, however, foods that are fun to eat all your life. And they have almost no calories. Bean sprouts, for instance. Carrots and mushrooms. And that most versatile of all vegetables, celery.

At home or eating out, calorie counters stand to lose more than they gain if they'll only remember this dieter's credo.

1. Whenever I'm planning meals or reading a menu I'll remember the crunch of fresh green celery—only 82 calories for a full pound. That means about 3 calories for one inner rib.

2. At all times of diet balancing I'll count on celery to supply useful amounts of vitamins and minerals, particularly vitamins A and C. What's more, celery gives good natural roughage, which nutritionists say plays an important part in today's diet.

3. Whenever I'm cooking I'll recall that celery can help bulk out a dish, making it more flavorfully filling at a ridiculously low cost in calories.

4. In every meal I'll make sure to have a dish of crackly crisp celery handy, because I know that reducing diets often lack the necessary chewiness that celery so neatly provides.

Here are some delicious low-calorie recipes for enjoying celery.

Cook sliced celery in chicken broth with a good dash of soy sauce. (You can make the chicken broth with cubes and hot water, if you like.)

Add onion, parsley, garlic or marjoram, and cook just until the celery is tender-crisp. This runs about 30 calories per cup.

For meatballs with celery "spaghetti," simmer well seasoned meatballs in tomato juice or sauce in a heavy-bottomed pot.

With a sharp knife cut long, thin strips of celery rib to resemble spaghetti or noodles. Boil the "noodles" for about 5 minutes, or until they're al dente, and serve with the hot meatballs.

Fish Rolls in Celery-Tomato Sauce are delicious and low-calorie. To a 15-ounce can of tomato sauce add a cup of sliced celery, 1/2 cup diced green pepper, 1/2 cut chopped onion, 2 tablespoons water, and 1/2 teaspoon oregano or Italian seasoning.

Simmer the sauce about 15 minutes. Now, season 1 1/2 pounds of fish fillets with salt and pepper, and roll up. Arrange fillets in a shallow baking pan. Top with the tomato-celery sauce and bake at 375° F for about 20 minutes—or until fish flakes when tested with a fork. This makes 6 servings. Try this recipe with Mississippi farm-raised catfish.

Another good thing for a quick lunch: Mix a 12-ounce container of pot cheese with a cup of thinly sliced celery. Add a tablespoon or so of low-fat milk, salt, pepper, basil leaves, garlic or onion powder to taste.

Use to stuff 4 medium tomatoes. This will make 4 hearty portions, at only 85 calories per portion. This is a great way to serve those delicious Mississippi home grown tomatoes during the summer.

If losing a few unwanted pounds is a priority, eat sensibly choosing nutritious, low-calorie foods and leave the fad diets to their fate.

Research works.

Reflections
On LifeBy Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

He was going back

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

At birth, all of us were pointed toward a grand entrance into this world, toward establishing our roots here on earth, toward growing up wise in the ways of the world, toward eventually finding a respectable way of life, and toward enjoying in a reasonable measure most of the span of our allotted days of life.

One man, however, was an alien from the first moment of his birth, having been denied by his fellow earthlings a normal, decent, comfortable place to make his entry into the world.

From the very beginning, he seemed to be going back to somewhere else rather than coming here.

Obviously, he had scarcely arrived, yet he was already going back whither he had come because the very world which had been made through him refused to accept him as Lord and Master.

Without him, as St. John the evangelist writes, nothing in the whole universe would be in existence, no creature would have a home.

Nevertheless, no one offered him a home or a welcome. Since he was not given the opportunity to settle down here, he was going back before anyone could rightly say that he had come.

Certainly, this universe, together with Planet Earth, is part of his kingdom.

Still, at no moment did it appear that he was coming here to live and rule for any amount of time. Instead, he seemed only to be passing through swiftly, his eyes set more on whence he had come than on where he was alighting.

Born as few paupers are, the travesty of the sojourn of this Monarch continued unabated with his hasty retreat into Egypt in the hands of his foster father Joseph.

Surely, rather than coming here, he was going back to the Inner Sanctum which he had left.

He was definitely a loser in worldly terms, devoid of a formal education, and living on modest means without a job which generated prestige or much income. He was not a "comer," as they say. So he must have been going back.

Even when he got into peripatetic preaching, there was hardly a point at which you could speak of his grand arrival, apart from a few moments of glory at his first talk in the synagogue.

His very miracles indicated an abstraction which telegraphed to everyone that he was not long for this world.

All the more, when his own hometown folk did not accept him, and when the Jewish leaders, who should have been his allies, rejected him, it was obvious that he was not oriented to this world.

He was going back rapidly, even as he fed the multitudes with no resources, even as he healed the broken and the terminally ill without medicine, even as he covered the countryside at a pace which told everyone that he was strapped for time.

Of course, the ringleaders of the Jews made conclusive what was already obvious when they arrested him, beat him savagely, totally humiliated him, and murdered him by nailing him to a crossbar made from a tree. Most obviously, he was going back.

Extremely serious questions plague us as Christians, since we claim to be his followers, and since he warned us that we cannot be his disciples unless we shoulder our cross daily and follow in his bloody footsteps. We must be going back too.

But do we have that constant appearance of going back as Jesus always did? Are we mired in mundane things, readily giving the impression that we would prefer to stay here forever?

Is there an otherworldly air about at least some of our daily activities, indicating, after all, that we are going back to the bosom of God?

Petra is currently on tour in support of their 11th album 'On Fire' which is being heralded as one of Christian music's most significant releases in recent years.

The album is currently one of the top selling albums in Christian music and the first two singles 'First Love' and 'Mine Field' reached number one on three of MusCLine's four airplay charts.

The album and tour of On Fire! continues Petra's move back to a harder edged rock sound, featuring Bob Hartman's guitars and the lead vocals of former Head East lead singer John Schlitt.

The band is also continuing their attitude of ministry and concern for their audience. Throughout the tour, Petra is promoting a Petra Prayer Warriors Campaign.

The effort includes distribution of devotions, youth groups praying for one another across the nation, and Petra prayer rallies before concerts.

Petra will be featured in concert at the Saenger Theatre in Mobile, Ala. on April 22 at 7:30 p.m. For information call (205) 438-5686.

Celebrate CheeseBurger Days

First, make sure you start with the best you can buy — Delchamps Fresh Ground Chuck.
Then just add your favorite combination of two kinds of real cheese. Like Colby and Muenster. Or Mozzarella and Provolone.
Get the idea? Now get to Delchamps.
Because for great cheeseburgers, it's the best place to start.

Try these delicious combinations:
Colby & Muenster, American &
Muenster, Monterey Jack & Cheddar,
Swiss & Cheddar, Mozzarella & Blue,
Mozzarella & Provolone. These fine cheeses and many more are available at Delchamps.
